Milwaukee was the 19th city in population in 1870, and it holds that position in 1880.

General Grant is doing good campaign work. When he speaks, the country hears what he says.

The further the Democrats get into the campaign, the worse their dilemma and the sorer their troubles.

The people of the United States have sent five million dollars to the Irish sufferers within the past twelve months.

Providence seems to be always on the side of the Republicans. Ben Butler has left the party and has come out for Hancock.

The Republicans will give the Democrats a big change this year—it will be increased Republican majorities in every Northern State.

It has been decided that the next Triennial Convocation of the Knights Templar of the United States will be held in San Francisco in 1880.

They say Michigan is good for 30,000 majority for Garfield next November. Michigan is good for most anything that is great, and Wisconsin will not be far in the rear.

The Oshkosh Northwestern comes to us this week enlarged to eight columns. It is now the largest daily in the State outside of Milwaukee and one of the best, too.

If the Democrats think they are having a hard time now, just let them wait till next November. They will see a worse stampede of their party then than they did in 1872.

The acreage of wheat in Minnesota this year is a little less than three millions, and the average yield per acre is estimated at fifteen bushels, making 45 million bushels as the total yield.

A prominent Democratic paper in Washington says "it looks as if the Democrats in New York do not want harmony." That is about so, the Democrats are strangers to anything like harmony.

The treasury clerks in the departments at Washington, who served with English for some time, say his chief occupation was making small loans to his his associate clerks at most insupportable rates of interest, and he always insisted on his pound of flesh.

It is to be hoped that General Walker, superintendent of the census, will order a re-census of the inhabitants in North Carolina. He and the President should have backbone enough to do this. It is a good time to knock some of the stuffing out of some of the Southern magnates.

Wade Hampton's speech seems to give the Democrats trouble. This should not be. Hampton is an honest Democrat. He is frank enough to tell the people that the Democratic party this fall is trying to gain what the South lost during the war, but the Northern Democrats, while they say amen in a low tone to Wade Hampton's remarks, they are afraid to speak out in meeting in the North.

There does not seem to be any division of opinion in regard to New York going Republican this fall. Grant says it will, and the man of independent judgment says it will. The country says it will. The Democrats still hope, at least they let on as if they hope, that they will carry New Jersey. This is about the only Northern State there is any show for them to carry, and their chances there are growing beautifully less every day.

It is said that the total number of passengers holding reduced tickets who arrived in Chicago between Sunday morning and Tuesday noon to attend the Knights Templar demonstration was 120,000; but this does not include the suburban passengers. The expense incurred by the Triennial Committee for the entertainment of the Knights was $85,000. There were 272 commanderies present, and it is claimed over 30,000 Knights, but this estimate we regard as too great.

The decline of American shipping will be the occasion of a large convention of ship-builders and ship-owners to be held in Boston on the 6th of October. The question is often asked, "is there any hope for American shipping?" To-day England has some 424 first class steamships in the foreign trade with the United States, while aside from the Cuban and Mexican trade, we have only 15 or 16. These figures may be startling and may seem ridiculous, but they are nevertheless true.

Only a few days ago a deputy United States marshal went to Covington county, Alabama, to arrest some men charged with beating some United States witnesses, and destroying the processes issued from the United States courts. The marshal was met by a force of from twenty-five to fifty men, who were armed with shotguns and revolvers. The man he wanted to arrest was secreted in a barn, and the Southern bullies surrounded it and defied the marshal to arrest him. Of course the marshal had no force to fight such a crowd, and was compelled to withdraw, which he did in the face of the shouts of the gang—"When we elect Hancock this—foolishness will stop." We guess the bull-dozers were about right. If Hancock should be elected, the moonshiners and law breakers will have full sway in the South.

CIVIL SERVICE AND COMMON SENSE.

Recently, Mr. Edward L. Pierce, of Boston, delivered an address before the Alumni of Brown University, at Providence, Rhode Island, in which he said:

"No subject of national politics requires so much the attention of educated men to-day as the reconstruction of our civil service upon the principles of enlightened statesmanship. For the first forty years of our history under the Constitution, that service depended on personal integrity and fitness, and not upon political opinion. But with President Jackson's civil service and partisan service became synonymous, and so they have remained to this day. While the nation has in other respects made remarkable advances in methods of administration, here its movement has been retrograding, and we have fallen far behind the progress of other civilized nations."

There is a class of theorists in this country who look upon the civil service system of the United States as degrading the tone of public life. They are so straight-backed and so highly moral, politically, that to them nothing good can come out of the present plan of filling federal offices, and in the immense force of revenue officers, postmasters, marshals, and deputies, they see nothing but partisans bent upon the spoils of office.

It will be distinctly remembered that when General Grant first occupied the Presidential chair, that set of inappreciable men and theorists, headed by George William Curtis, of Harper's Weekly, appealed to the President to use his influence in reforming the civil service. There were points in which the civil service could be reformed, and General Grant saw it, and so did every man who paid any attention to public matters. A civil service commission was formed, and it went to work to make the needed reformation. The commission was made up principally of men who knew nothing practically of the business they had in hand, and yet these are the men who looked the longest for what they called civil service reform. A man who has never done anything but measure tape, cannot manage a steam engine, and one who has devoted his whole life to studying social or political ethics, to writing essays, and to lecturing before female societies, is not the man to dictate how a strong government shall be run; and consequently the civil service commission was a failure. It could not do what it wanted to do because the men who had civil service reform on the brain, were men of impracticable ideas. They could become conspicuous and ornamental in society, but when confronted with the mighty machinery of this government, they were of no use.

Mr. Pierce tells us that in civil service reform other nations have advanced, while the United States has retrograded. Let us test the truth of this statement by some facts and figures which can not fail to be of general interest to the reader. A civil service system which will show the highest possible efficiency, and the most remarkable economy, is not a system which should be condemned.

Great Britain, with a population of not more than 25 millions, had a revenue in 1879, of 415 million dollars, while its expenditures were 427 millions. France, with a population of 36 millions, received from revenue in 1879, 515 million dollars, and expended 552 millions. Germany has a population of 42 millions, and the revenues for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1879, were 83 million dollars, and the expenditures for ordinary purposes were 103 millions. It will be seen that each of these great powers of Europe, about whose civil service American theorists say so much, expended more than they received.

The United States with a population of 34 millions, had a total net ordinary receipts including loans, of 273 million dollars, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1880, while on the other hand the net ordinary expenditures were only 161 million dollars.

To make these figures more forcible it may be stated that the annual expenditure per capita was $12.95 in Great Britain; $14.07 in France; in the German Empire and Prussia $9.48; but in the United States, whose civil service is "retrograding," the annual expenditures per capita were only $6.13.

But there are more striking figures still to show that the civil service of this country, under the control of the Republican party, is one of the purest this government ever had. The losses for every one thousand dollars disbursed by the government during Lincoln's term was only 76 cents; during Johnson's 57 cents; during Grant's, 34 cents; and while no official figures have been prepared to show the ratio of loss per $1000 during Hayes' administration, it is generally conceded that the loss will be less than ever before known in this country.

Whatever faults may be found with our civil service system, it is certainly, as regards efficiency and economy, far in advance of the systems of other countries.

GOT 'EM SURE.

The Republican Prospects in Indiana.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—A private letter has been received from William W. Dudley, United States Marshal for Indiana, which shows a very substantial foundation for the confidence of Republicans in their ability to carry the State. Mr. Dudley is known as one of the best political organizers in the West. His information is based on thorough knowledge, and may be considered as an authoritative exposition of the Republican position in that State. The disclosure to which Mr. Dudley refers was an estimate of the present strength of the two parties in that State, based upon elections for a series of years, and revised in accordance with recent canvasses of the counties giving a Republican plurality of 2,300.

CHOLERA.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.
ERIE, Pa., August 21.—Several cases of genuine Asiatic cholera are creating great excitement here. William Hawarth, a railroad employee, was attacked Wednesday, and died in great agony. P. Finley was attacked yesterday, and died. Mrs. Finley was taken about the time of her husband's death and cannot live.

NEW YORK.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.
NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—A large band of gypsies, occupying at West Hoboken, resting for a few days, are on a journey to Iowa, to select a queen. The throng is now unoccupied, death having created a vacancy. The leader of the band says the qualifications for the office are that the ambitious woman must be a beautiful maiden of pure gypsy blood, able to trace her ancestry for a century back.

HORRIBLE MURDER.

An Old Man Slain By His Son-in-law—The Story of the Crime.

NEENAH, Wis., Aug. 20.—A terrible double tragedy was enacted on a farm in the town of Vinland, four miles from this city, this morning, where Lewis Emmons, aged 54 years, shot his father-in-law, Albert Huxley, aged 78, and then killed himself. Both parties were old residents of this city and town, and were highly connected and respected by everyone. The causes that led to the sad affair are as follows: Huxley two years ago bought a farm for Emmons, on condition that he (Emmons) would support Huxley and his wife for the remainder of their lives. Emmons put in all the money he had, some $2,000. Last year the crops were bad, and Emmons failed to pay the interest on a mortgage given to Mr. Richard Stone, of this city. This year the result was the same, and Huxley culminated a dispute on the matter, which has been going on for a year past, by telling Emmons he would take his farm and come to Neenah, and insist on Emmons paying the interest on the mortgage. He then went to the barn for his horse, and Emmons went into the house and got his revolver. Mrs. Emmons saw her husband come from the house, and his looks indicated his disposition. She looks in terror at her father and begged him not to say any more to Emmons, and while she was talking to him Emmons came forward and sent a shot through the old man's right arm. Mrs. Emmons threw her arms around her father's neck, but Emmons got in another shot, this time crushing through Huxley's brain. He at once turned his pistol and sent a ball through his own heart. In an hour after, and not a word having been spoken by either, both died, and at the same time. The two were both members of the Methodist church, and were surrounded with every comfort, and respected by all. Emmons leaves a son of 16 years, a daughter of 23 years, and his widow. Huxley is the father of Mrs. G. P. Vining, Mrs. G. E. Scott, and Mrs. Emmons. He has also a daughter in Troy, New York, and a son in Iowa. Huxley was aged 78 years and Emmons 54 years. The city is greatly excited, owing to the prominence of the parties. The sympathy of the public is with Emmons, who, it is claimed, was persecuted and goaded to the fearful deed.

FOR GARFIELD.

A Tilden Elector Comes Out For the Republican Ticket.

NEW YORK, August 20.—It was stated at Democratic headquarters to-day, with a good deal of assumed wonder, that Peter Sheldon, of Chautauque county, a Tilden elector in 1876, has come out square for Garfield. The fact of chief importance at the Republican headquarters was the receipt of a letter from Henry Warren, saying that, on his return from his journey to England, he would take an active part in the campaign, and that this State must be carried at all hazards.

CAMPAIGN DOCUMENTS.

The Political Parties in Washington at Work on Campaign Documents.

WASHINGTON, August 20.—The Republican Congressional Committee is at work issuing Scandinavian documents for the Northwest. They consist of Garfield's speeches, Frye's speech, and the financial achievements of the Republican party, and the Republican platform. Large editions of these and similar documents are already out in the German language, and are doing good service. The Republican platform, Garfield's speeches, and Schurz's address at Indianapolis are especially called for in the German tongue, and are being distributed by thousands. Documents in English are sent at the rate of fifty mail bags per day. A new document has just been completed embodying extracts from Garfield's speeches, not only political, but of all descriptions, and express some of his best expressed thoughts on every conceivable subject.

The Democrats are all at once intensely active in the line of discrediting Garfield. They have discovered that their own newspapers are ahead of them in this work, and are hard at it to catch up. Indiana, Maine and Ohio are the chief receivers of this class of bogus literature. Their literary men have had great trouble to prepare a proper amount of reading matter for campaign purposes, which amounts in part for the delay. The records on every public question are against their party, and they have had either to directly falsify or steer clear of all pertinent questions in the public mind. Even discussions on the free trade will only do for some sections of the country, and they have to be judiciously circulated, or they do more harm than good. That Hancock's life, told in the most fabulous view, can only be sent North, as it is not agreeable to the Southern wing of the party to read how successfully he had their women shot down in battle. About their only card, NA, and bloody shirt, reconciliation, non-sectarianism, etc. The case really demands more talent than the Democratic party can command.

TERRIBLE VISITATION.

A Hurricane at Brownsville and Matamoros.

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 20.—A special to the Post from Corpus Christi says a hurricane at Brownsville and Matamoros damaged property in that section to the amount of $100,000. The Brownsville Cosmopolitan of the 16th inst. says: One of the most terrible hurricanes that ever visited this section was experienced here before yesterday. The direct center of it passed directly over Brownsville and Matamoros, causing a loss of property that will strike severely on this community. The rainfall for the whole storm was 13.00 inches. Buildings were and roofed or completely blown down, fences demolished, trees uprooted, and shipping all destroyed. Telegraph lines generally were prostrated, and all communication with the outer world interrupted.

A DUEL.

Two Virginians Thirsting for Satisfaction and Glory.

NORFOLK, Va., August 20.—There is intense excitement in this city and community over an expected duel between Captain James Baron Hope, editor of the Norfolk Landmark, a distinguished writer and journalist, and Colonel William Lamb, Mayor of Norfolk, an Elector on the Readjuster-Hancock and English Electoral ticket, and a politician of note. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of both parties, but thus far they have successfully eluded detection. Colonel Lamb left the city this afternoon by private conveyance, and Captain Hope cannot be found. If the meeting has not already taken place, it is thought the duel will be fought early in the morning. The immediate cause of the difference grew out of a card published by Lamb Saturday, characterizing a paragraph of an editorial written by the editor of the Landmark a deliberate falsification of partisan purposes. Both gentlemen are of acknowledged courage. Colonel Lamb commanded I. F. Fish, when it fell before General Terry in 1861, and Captain Hope has a distinguished as a poet and writer.

SIXTH WISCONSIN.

GREEN BAY, Aug. 20.—It has generally been expected here that the Hon. D. M. Kelly, of this city, and now a member of the State Senate, would be pitted against Gabe Bonck as the Republican candidate for Congress in this district. But letters recently received here from Mr. Kelly, who is now in New York, contain the unpleasant information that he will be obliged to decline the nomination on account of the press of his private business. This decision is said to be final, and is a great disappointment to the Republicans of the district, who felt certain that with Mr. Kelly as their standard-bearer they would be able to send Mr. Bonck to the shades of private life. It looks now as if the choice might fall upon the Hon. A. K. Osborne, of Oshkosh, who has been connected with the Internal Revenue Department for some years, and is a first-class man. The only objection that has been or can be urged against Mr. Osborne's candidacy is on account of locality, the City of Oshkosh having already enjoyed the honor of furnishing the Representative for fourteen years—ten years Philetus Sawyer held the office, and Bonck is now filling out his fourth year.

Just heard from Tom Harris of Virginia City, Nevada, who writes, that the doctors had given up all hopes of saving him; he had Alzheimaria in the worst form, he was induced to try Spring Blossom, he is now bossing his Stamping Mill as usual.

The Great Eastern Steamship.

Now being refitted for the live outfit-trade, was designed to trade with India, and was planned by Brunel and Scott Russell in 1857. The descendants of James Watts built her engines. Her construction (of iron plates) was begun in 1854. She was designed for 4,000 passengers, 800 first class, and a crew of 400. Her paddles and screw give 11,800-horse power. She spreads, under full sail, 65,000 square yards of canvas. She is 322 feet long, 82 feet wide, 28 feet deep, 12,000 tons weight, and draws thirty feet of water laden. She was launched in 1857, and it took three months to launch her, at a cost of $600,000 for launching alone. She was sold unfinished for $800,000 to a new company in 1859, and equipped for $700,000 more. She left the Thames for sea in September last year, and killed six men by an explosion. In July she crossed the Atlantic from Southampton in eleven days with thirty-six passengers. Spending $200,000 more upon her, the directors started her to New York with 100 passengers in May, and she burned about 230 tons of coal at sea. The British government engaged her to carry troops to fight the United States, and she went to Quebec. She next took 400 passengers, and had to put back. That closed her career, except for cable-laying in which she was chartered for $5,000 a month, without crew. She has been a loss of $5,000,000.

Combing in a shady grove, sat his Julia. Loveless he gave his love Ipecuenum. About three score and ten, his love out of the box did pick. Then leaving very hard on him, said "I must have been a blamed fool, such remedy to try. When Thomas' Electric Oil, he anywhere could buy."

THE SEA SERPENT.

The Big Story That is Told By Staten Island Fishermen.

The sea serpent has been seen again. At least some Staten Islanders say they saw him on Thursday last. Tom Stowe, a well known boatman of Clinton, Staten Island, and Tom Turner, a fisherman, took party, all from the same place, went down the bay on that day in the little fishing yacht the E. A. Hayes. They went toward the Hook, and for a short time trailed for bluefish without success. Then Stowe put back and endeavored to find a secret fishing ground recently discovered by Captain John Pence, and lying some distance to the northeast of Flynn's Knoll.

About a mile to the northeast of Flynn's Knoll, Mr. Turner, who was in the bow of the boat, says he saw the water break a short distance in front of him, and a huge, dark object, began to cross the bow with a slow and undulating motion.

"There is a fearful shark here!" shouted. "And here is another thing, but it is not a shark," shouted Stowe. Just then, they saw the object, which they had taken for another fish, was in reality the tail of the monster whose head, first seen by Turner, reached at least sixty feet from the bow of the boat. The monster passed around the boat, gliding along lazily and leaving just enough disturbance of the water to indicate his presence.

"The sea serpent!" shouted the fishermen. Stowe put the boat ahead in the hope of getting a better view of the monster. For a moment or two the wake only was visible, and then it disappeared. This was Stowe's story.

"Tom," said a bystander, at the conclusion of his story, "what sort of whisky did you have on board when you saw that snake?"

"We had no whisky at all, sir," replied Stowe. "We had some lager, but all the whisky on Staten Island, I don't think, could make me see a snake as big as that. I tell you I am not fooling; I saw the thing as plain as I am looking at you. I am willing to take an affidavit to it."

"Are you sure it was not a school of porpoises?"

"I am; it was no school; it was all one solid piece."

"Did you see his head?"

"No, I saw the beginning of the black thing—the end that was going. That's where the head was. The other end that was coming, of course, was the tail."

"How long was it?"

"Oh, I didn't get out to measure him."

"Well, about how long, as the lawyers say?"

"About 160 feet."

"Oh, no!"

"I tell you it is true. I'd take my oath to it."

Turner keeps a lager beer saloon in Clinton. He was examined and cross-examined about the sea serpent by several of his customers.

"What Tom Stowe says is as true as Gospel," said he. "I saw that big snake plain enough, and I moved just like an eel. It was a fearful-looking thing."

"Did you see its head?"

"No, I could not see the head. I could only see the big, long, black thing winding along."

"How long was it?"

"I couldn't say exactly, but it must have been over 100 feet. It took one wind around the boat. It must have been traveling with us at first, but we didn't see it until it began to cross our bow. Then, when one end was out to windward over the bow, the other was behind us and under our lee."

"Well, I don't know that I was afraid, but I can't say that I was sorry when it went away. Without joking, it was an awfully looking thing."

"Did it look as if it meant to attack the boat?"

"I think it must have followed us unnoticed for some time."

"What makes you think it was the sea serpent?"

"The length of it and its winding or twisting motion. But I can't say what it was. All I know that it was a big, long, black thing."

"If it were not alive how could it cross the bow of the boat? Of course it was alive."

The neighbors are somewhat inclined to throw discredit upon Turner's and Stowe's story, but the men are positive their assertions.

Two Children's Suicide.

Thomas Crowl, of Beaver county, Pa., was discharged with his regiment from the United States service at the close of the war in 1865. He had served three years in the army, and participated in most of the great battles, escaping without a wound. While on the railroad on the way home a collision occurred. He was killed. He left a wife and two small children. The widow subsequently married Jurel Williams. The stepfather was abusive to the children. Three years ago one of them, a girl 16 years old, was turned out of doors by him, after being beaten. She drowned herself in a stream near by. The other child was a son named Peter. He was so badly treated by his stepfather that he left home and obtained a situation. Williams carried his persecution of the boy to his place of employment. Not long ago he succeeded in having Peter discharged from his place. The boy returned home and bade his mother good-bye. The next morning he was found dead in a barn half a mile away. He had shot himself through the heart.

To Cure Fits of Sneezing.

A correspondent of the British Medical Journal says: "During the recent rapid changes of temperature I caught a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a most incessant sneezing. My unfortunate nose gave me no rest. The slightest impact of cold air, or passing from the outside air into a warm room, equally brought on a fit of sneezing. In vain I sniffed camphor and pulsatilla; the light remedy still triumphed over me. At length I resolved to see what the nature of a uniform temperature would do toward diminishing the irritability of my Schneiderian membrane, and accordingly I plugged my nostrils with cotton wool. The effect was instantaneous."

Again and again I tested the efficacy of this simple remedy, always with the same result. However near I was to a sneeze, the introduction of the pledgets stopped it at once. Nor was there any inconvenience from their presence, muzzling them sufficiently firm not to muffle, and yet leaving the nostrils loose to easily breathe through. This is really worth knowing, for incessant sneezing is among the greatest of smaller ills, and it only a rational conclusion to hope that this simple plan may furnish the most efficient remedy against one of the most distressing symptoms of hay fever.

A Business Man's Opinion.

C. B. Dorr, of Toledo, O., says he has used Day's Kidney Pads in his family with results so superior to all other treatments that he regards them as the best kidney doctor in the world.

LIFE.

The following remarkable compilation is a contribution to the San Francisco Times from the pen of Mrs. H. A. Denning. The reader will notice that each line is a quotation from some of the standard authors of England and America. This is the result of a year's laborious search among the leading poets of the past and present time:

Why all this toil for triumphs of an hour?
 Young.
 Life's a short summer, man a flower.
 De La Haye.
 By turns we catch the vital breath and die.
 Page.
 The cradle and the tomb, alas, so nigh.
 De La Haye.
 To be, is better far than not to be.
 Small.
 Though all man's life may seem a tragedy;
 Spencer.
 But light comes speak when mightier griefs are dumb.
 De La Haye.
 The bottom is but shallow whence they come.
 De La Haye.
 Your fate is but the common fate of all.
 De La Haye.
 Unmingled joy—here to no man has been.
 De La Haye.
 Nature to each allot his proper sphere;
 De La Haye.
 Fortune makes folly her peculiar care.
 De La Haye.
 Custom does often reason overrule.
 De La Haye.
 And throw a cruel sunshine on a fool.
 De La Haye.
 Live well; how long or short, permit to heaven;
 De La Haye.
 Those who forgive most shall be most forgiven.
 De La Haye.
 Sin may be cherished as close we cannot see its face.
 De La Haye.
 Vice intercourse where virtue has no place.
 De La Haye.
 Then keep each passion down, however dear;
 De La Haye.
 Thou shalt not have a sin and a reward.
 De La Haye.
 Her secret source but faithless pleasure lay.
 De La Haye.
 With craft and skill to ruin and betray.
 De La Haye.
 Bear not too high to fall, but stoop to rise;
 De La Haye.
 We must grow of all that we despise.
 De La Haye.
 Then I renounce that impious self-esteem;
 De La Haye.
 Riches have wings, and grandeur is a dream.
 De La Haye.
 Think not ambition, wise because it's rare.
 De La Haye.
 The paths of glory lead but to the grave.
 De La Haye.
 What is ambition? 'Tis a glorious grief.
 De La Haye.
 Only destructive to the brave and great.
 De La Haye.
 What's all the gaudy glitter of a crown?
 De La Haye.
 The way to bliss lies not on beds of down.
 De La Haye.
 How long we live, not years but actions tell;
 De La Haye.
 That man lives twice who first lives well.
 De La Haye.
 Make then, while yet we may, your God your friend.
 De La Haye.
 Whom Christians worship, yet not comprehend.
 De La Haye.
 The trust that's given guard, and watch yourself.
 De La Haye.
 For live we how we can, yet die we must.
 De La Haye.

NOVEL ADVENTURE.

Killing a Bear with a Penknife.

About noon on the 14th of the month just closed, two vaqueros, George Cornell and Gus Richardson, who were driving cattle in Mohave County, Arizona, saw a large cinnamon bear emerge from a pile of rocks and plant himself directly in front of the herd. Cornell's horse started in alarm, and trembling in every limb, refused to obey the spur. The other vaquero rode a courageous little Mustang, which he better mettle and which soon put Richardson within ten yards of the beast. Unstraining his riata Richardson threw it at the bear, but though the aim was good the bear caught the rope in his mouth and charged instantly. Richardson was caught. He could not get no further than his horse's length from the savage animal, because the bear's teeth were strong, his bold good, and his dander up. The Mustang's supple strength was equal to the occasion, however. He ran round and round the bear following, for ten minutes or more, Cornell meanwhile watching an opportunity to cast his rope. The opportunity came, the vaquero's coil shot through the air and the bear was caught by one of his hind legs. Then the real fun began. The cinnamon bear, mad from nose to tail, let go Richardson's rope only to find himself dragged backward by Cornell's ready horsemanship. The men had left their weapons at home and so were puzzled for some time to know how death could be dealt out to their prize. By way of experiment, Richardson dismounted and began a fusillade with rocks. This stunned the bear and enabled the vaqueros to heave his ribs with a pocket-knife until he died.

BRIEFLETS.

—August reaches its majority.

—Remember the Republican canoeses to-night.

—To-morrow is the thirteenth Sunday after Trinity.

—"Freaks" at the Opera house next Thursday evening promises to put everybody on the wide grin.

—We are in receipt of the usual complimentary for the annual fair of the Green County Agricultural Society to be held at Monroe, September 15th to 18th inclusive.

—The campaign flag of the Republican club has been flung to the breeze, at the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets, and shows up well. It waves enthusiastically the names of Garfield and Arthur.

—Arrangements are being made for having a most jolly picnic at Wheeler's grove next Wednesday, and a dance at Young America hall in the evening of the same day. All for the benefit of St. Patrick's church.

—At the First Methodist church to-night there will be a Bible study. Subject—"Abraham's Covenant." The service will commence at 8 o'clock p. m. and attendants are expected to bring Bibles and hymnals.

—Dr. Newman's dental office will be closed next week to his patrons, but will be occupied by carpenters, painters, paper hangers, and members of the decorative arts generally. In the meantime the Doctor will take a long needed rest.

—Last night the smell of escaping gas in the Myers house caused the night clerk to go to the rooms, waking up the sleepers, and hunting up the leak. At last it was found that one of the sleepers had blown out the gas, instead of turning it off.

—Look out for the "Irish Spy," a grand drama, which will be brought out in grand style, next week Thursday, Friday and Saturday, at Lappin's hall, under the management of Mr. Frank Norton, who will appear in his original character of "Tim O'Brien, the Irish Spy," assisted by the best amateur talent in the city. Don't fail to see it.

—Mr. Rumliff, of Fulton, has three acres of Spanish tobacco which shows an unusual growth and is pronounced as fine in quality as it is large in size. We have received a sample leaf which measures twenty and a half inches in breadth by thirty-two and a half inches in length. One such leaf would furnish smoking enough to last a veteran for a whole day.

—Belot has been losing by death its citizens very rapidly of late. Yesterday afternoon another passed away, it being Josiah L. Shepard. He was a wealthy and prominent man, who has resided there for two years past. He presented to Beloit college recently the finest microscope in the country, and in other ways showed his public spirit and benevolence.

—Miss Hattie Oulkins, of Milwaukee, is the guest of Mrs. Clinton H. Wilcox.

—C. L. Valentine and Dr. St. John have returned from Minnesota, where they have been shooting chickens. They report a good time. Frank Sherer and Will Watson will remain for a time longer.

—T. T. Croft, Secretary and Treasurer of the Single Court Spring Company, is arranging to take in a number of the leading State fairs, and show up the advantages of the spring manufactured by that company.

World renowned, as unrivaled, the Astor House, New York.

THE TURTLE BURGLARY.

Mr. Ross, whose residence at Turtle was burglarized the other night, has found the notes and papers, valued at about $4000, and belonging to his mother, the thieves having left them in the yard, an examination showing them doubtless that it would be useless to attempt to negotiate them, and reckless to keep possession of them. The loss is therefore whittled down to about $50 in cash.

At the meeting of the Association of Instructors for the Blind held in Louisville, Ky., this week, Mrs. T. H. PANIC IN CLOTH.

He appeared on the streets to-day with a big bundle of cloth and suitings, which he shyly whispered had been smuggled through from Canada. He was hard up, must leave town on the afternoon train, must raise some money, would sell these Canadian goods for a song, might name your own price, case of necessity, was an orphan, and no home, father sick, mother an invalid, had no wife, but had six children, all hungry orphans, etc. He shot this whole story into a Doctor's ear, and after being plainly told that no cloth was needed, insisted on having the Doctor make a bill. He stuck to that Doctor like a burr, and even followed him into a little office for gentlemen only. The Doctor's patience was exhausted, and he quickly turned the key in the door, locking himself and the peddler in together, and prepared for sweet revenge. Opening the door of the vault where ashes are thrown in, he caught that peddler, and prepared to dump him in with the rest of the rubbish. The peddler indulged in a hurried season of prayer, and begged that the benediction might be pronounced and the congregation dismissed without the usual collection. The prayer was heard and answered, on the condition that the peddler would stop here the Doctor about that cloth. He was let out on his own recognizance, and the Doctor breathed easier. That salesman was bound to do his duty by Canada, though, and finish canvassing that block. He entered another office, and began his yarn, and had got along to about the third chapter, when he discovered the Doctor, and in a glance realized that he was in another of the same snare of rooms. He didn't wait to be caught, but went tumbling out again, struck once at the head of the stairs, and again somewhere between there and the bottom, and one bolt of cloth mangled, and carpeted those stairs as though a wedding was on hand. When last seen he was looking at some railroad ties on the new road to Afton.

REPUBLICAN HEADQUARTERS.

The Republican Club of the city of Janesville has rented the Young Men's Association room in the old postoffice building, at the east end of Milwaukee street bridge, and will use that as headquarters during the campaign. The room will be open during each day and evening, commencing probably on Monday next. This will prove a convenient and centrally located headquarters, and all will be welcome callers there.

PLEASURES OF HOME.

Mrs. H. D. McKinney entertained about forty friends, on Thursday evening, the gathering being in honor of her niece, Miss Carrie Hogan. The occasion was an enjoyable one, and the evening hours sped lightly.

On the same evening Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Miner entertained a few of their many friends by the usual festivities of a social evening, those sharing in the professed hospitality enjoying it hugely.

Last evening a goodly number of friends gathered at the residence of Hon. J. J. R. Bense, by invitation of Miss Addie Bense, by whom they were entertained in a very happy manner.

DR. FROTHINGHAM.

The English Specialist, Has Arrived in Our City.

The Founder of the New and Wonderful System of Herbaristic Medication.

Dr. Frothingham, the celebrated English physician of London, England, arrived in our city, Thursday last, and will remain with us one week, to show the people of Janesville the onward strides of the English scientists. The Doctor will remain in the State one year; and we need hardly add Dr. Frothingham comes to our city with the highest encomiums from both the press, and people from all parts of the State, as the following extracts from the press will show:

Dr. Frothingham astonishes all, by the accuracy of his diagnosis, which amounts almost to intuition. He locates every ache and pain, explains how and why the disease or ailment was contracted, and demonstrates how it can be eradicated, and in what length of time.

No charge for services will be made until a cure is effected. Nothing but English medicines are used by the Doctor. He will open his office at the Myers house, rooms 20 and 21, Monday, August 23, and close Saturday, August 29. Office boy will be at ladies' entrance on East Milwaukee street constantly, to show all to the Doctor's parlors. As there are always a large number calling to see the Doctor, he wishes us to say, comfortable parlors will be furnished all while waiting, and all diseases diagnosed free of charge.

Please read the extracts from the press. Over thirteen hundred patients were under treatment in this State.

Dr. Frothingham visited Milwaukee, Wisconsin, last spring, and in five weeks treated 572 patients. Please read the following from that place:

"During the month that Dr. Frothingham, the distinguished herbarist, has been in Milwaukee, he has fully established his reputation as a practitioner of extraordinary experience and skill. His success has been positive from the first, and his office at the Plankington House has been visited by as many as one hundred persons in a single day. Few physicians have had as varied a practice as Dr. Frothingham, and no one in the country has been more uniformly successful in the most serious classes of diseases or ailments. None but a physician thoroughly experienced and capable would dare to do business on the principle adopted by this gentleman. Any patient that he undertakes to cure, he will cure, or make no charge for his service. He carries with him a large and expensive assortment of carefully selected medicines, and is in all respects a responsible and useful member of the profession. Dr. Frothingham terminates his present visit to Milwaukee on Tuesday next. His office at the Plankington House will be at midnight of the day, but it is his determination to visit the city again next fall. On Wednesday he goes to Fond du Lac, where he will remain ten days, after which he visits Oshkosh, St. Paul and Minneapolis. Without doubt his experience and skill will be a revelation to all of his success here. Certainly he carries with him the kindest interest and the strongest endorsement of the people of Milwaukee, who have learned that he is not of the traveling quack order, but a gentleman of ripe experience, honorable methods, and disinterested aims. Persons in need of medical assistance will find Dr. Frothingham at the Plankington House at any hour on Monday or Tuesday, after which he may be addressed for twenty days, at Minneapolis."

CECILE RAPIDS, IOWA.

Yesterday closed the remarkably successful professional visit of Dr. Frothingham to this city. It has occupied nine days, and during that time upward of four hundred patients have been received and treated by the Doctor, at his rooms in the Larimer House. From morning till night, and sometimes far into the night, there has been a constant incoming and outgoing—not irresponsible and novelty-seeking individuals—but of the very best citizens of Dubuque and the surrounding country. Dr. Frothingham has made many warm friends here, and we predict that when he returns a month hence, his patients will avail themselves of his skill.

CECILE RAPIDS, IOWA.

This eminent physician and specialist, of the Frothingham Medical Institute, has been in practice at the Grand Hotel in our city for the past eight days, and has met with unprecedented success. His patients have been crowded from morning until night, with those of our very best citizens. Dr. F. is the founder of a new system of treatment of chronic diseases, being successful beyond his most sanguine expectations. His insight into diseases, his almost instantaneous conception, accurate diagnosis of human ailments without asking a question, his marvelous power to border upon the marvelous—Cecile Rapids Republican.

BURLINGTON, IOWA.

This eminent physician and specialist, arrived in our city March 10, and on next day opened an office in the Barrett house, which has been provided almost constantly by persons seeking after health. Dr. Frothingham's insight into disease, his almost instantaneous conception, accurate diagnosis of human ailments without asking a question, his marvelous power to border upon the marvelous—Cecile Rapids Republican.

BEYOND THE BRINE.

An Interesting Letter from Father Munch to His Janesville Friends.

INNSBRUCK, Tyrol, Austria, July 28.—I suppose you think I have either forgotten my promise to write you, or have been lost in the waves of the ocean, or frozen stiff amidst the snows of the Alps, or melted away by the heat of Italy, but no, I am alive and as well as ever. I take a few days' rest here, and so I thought to improve the opportunity of sending you a few lines across the little lake which divides us for the present. I had a very pleasant trip across the water. Captain L. is a very pleasant, jovial man, so were all the other officers. The Doctor is a young man from our own country, and he had an inexhaustible supply of anecdotes. When Miss Day, of theatrical renown, began to sing and twist her voice in the evenings, the Doctor would keep the company in a roar of laughter, and between them both we had many pleasant entertainments.

On the 23d of July we first saw land. It proved to be the Seilly cliffs. They are a mass of rocks against which the sea lashes with the greatest fury and being as it were, repulsed, by the stony mass, returns with greater force and violence to repeat the attack, with the same result. It was here that the steamer Schiller was wrecked, and many lives lost through the needlessness and imprudence of the officers, as our captain told us. However this may be, it is certain that a vessel which gets among those cliffs and rocks in heavy sea, must almost certainly perish. The Government of England has done all that is possible for the safety of seafaring vessels. Many light houses are placed along the coast. Some of them are at night, when their light is kindled and revolving, seen for ten and twenty miles distant.

The channel was comparatively quiet and the clutty shores of England visible. We passed Dover about 10 o'clock in the evening. It was a beautiful sight to see the many lights illuminating the city. At last we retired to bed and found ourselves in the morning on the river Meuse. Slowly we ascended the river, winding our way to and fro between the many forests. The shores were plainly visible and were clothed in beautiful green. Horses appeared on some elevations, and herds of cattle were grazing in the fields. The shores, as well as all Holland, are very low and not much above the sea, and in some places below the sea-level, and must therefore be protected by embankments, as on the lower Mississippi. In the afternoon we landed and took a walk through the city of Rotterdam. It is said to have a population of 150,000. The streets are mostly narrow, and what seemed strange to me, the people walked in the middle of the streets. Here the streets, as in all Holland, are kept scrupulously clean. Our American citizens might well learn a lesson here in this respect.

Our company went to a hotel where we stopped over night. The next morning I went to the Jesuit church, and there offered the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass to Almighty God, for the first time upon the shores of Europe. I thanked Him for the happy voyage and prayed for all my friends, particularly in and around Janesville. During the evening farewells were said to some of our fellow travelers, and returned in number our party went by rail to Germany. I stayed for a few days at Munster, where I visited some beautiful churches, and also the hall, where peace was concluded in 1648, ending the thirty years war. I trust you are well, and sending my best wishes to all my friends. I remain, My truly, Rev. Father MUNCH.
